Dust of Snow

The way a crow
Shook down on me
The dust of snow
From a hemlock tree

Has given my heart
A change of mood
And saved some part
Of a day I had rued.

ROBERT FROST

Summary

The poet was having a sad, gloomy day. He was standing under a hemlock tree. A crow sitting on the tree shook down a little snow dust on him.

This small incident changed his mood completely and saved the remaining part of his ruined day.

Moral: Small moments of nature can bring big happiness.

◇◇Thinking about the Poem◇

1. What is a "dust of snow"? What does the poet say has changed his mood? How has the poet's mood changed?

Ans: Dust of snow means fine particles of snow. Like dust, the snow falls lightly on the poet.

The poet says that the crow shaking snow from the hemlock tree has changed his mood.

Earlier his mood was sad and gloomy, he had wasted his day. Now his mood became cheerful and hopeful. The small incident saved his remaining day.

2. How does Frost present nature in this poem?

Ans: Frost presents nature in a simple and realistic way.

He does not use only beautiful things like birds and flowers. He uses a crow and a hemlock tree which are symbols of sorrow and darkness.

Through this he shows that nature has the power to heal and bring happiness, even small and ordinary things of nature can change a sad day into a happy one.

(i) What are the birds that are usually named in poems? Do you think a crow is often mentioned in poems? What images come to your mind when you think of a crow?

Ans: Usually poets name beautiful birds like nightingale, cuckoo, parrot, peacock and sparrow.

No, a crow is not often mentioned in poems because it is not considered beautiful. It has a harsh voice and black color.

When we think of a crow, images of darkness, sadness, bad luck and dullness come to our mind.

(ii) What is a hemlock tree? Why doesn't the poet write about a more beautiful tree such as a maple, or an oak, or a pine?

Ans: A hemlock tree is a poisonous evergreen tree with dark leaves. It is a symbol of sadness.

The poet does not write about beautiful trees like maple, oak or pine because he wants to show that happiness can come from even sad and dark things. If he used beautiful trees, it would be common. Using hemlock makes the poem more meaningful than even sorrowful things of nature can bring joy.

(iii) What do the 'crow' and 'hemlock' represent – joy or sorrow? What does the dust of snow that the crow shakes off a hemlock tree stand for?

Ans: Crow and hemlock both represent sorrow and gloom.

The dust of snow that the crow shakes off stands for a small and unexpected moment of joy. It shows that even a tiny good thing can change a sad mood into a happy one and save a day that was wasted.

3. Have there been times when you felt depressed or hopeless? Have you experienced a similar moment that changed your mood that day?

Ans: Yes, there have been times when I felt depressed and hopeless, especially when I failed in exams or had a fight with friends. It felt like the whole day was ruined.

Once I was very sad and was sitting alone in my room. Suddenly my pet dog came and started playing with me. His playful activity made me laugh and changed my mood. It saved my day, just like the dust of snow changed the poet's mood.
